Rigorous analysis
Dependable advice

CEG applies economic and quantitative finance principles to address competition, regulation, damages and broader advisory matters

Assessing the effect of conduct in both competition cases and disputes requires the application of economic theory and quantitative analysis, leading to a growing interplay between law, economics and finance. Empirical support reinforces legal arguments by placing documentary evidence in context.

CEG brings together senior economic and quantitative finance professionals with experience at the leading competition and regulatory agencies, industry and academia to offer insightful and dependable advice. Using up-to-date economic and finance theory and quantitative techniques, CEG economists prepare expert reports, provide input into client submissions, advise on case strategy, and provide testimony and presentations before competition agencies, courts and arbitral tribunals across the globe. In addition, we support our clients in critical strategic decision-making.

CEG is amongst the top 20 competition economics consultancies according to Global Competition Review. Our experts are consistently included in the GCR and WWL lists of recommended competition economists and in the WWL's list of recommended consulting experts.

Competition

ANTITRUST / MERGERS / MARKET INVESTIGATIONS / DAMAGES / STATE AID

CEG economists have substantial experience of applying economics to competition policy proceedings across the globe. We combine economic theory and econometric and simulation techniques to address market definition and competitive effects issues as well as the quantification of efficiencies.

CEG has provided economic analysis critical to getting transactions through or blocking them, determining whether and how firms exercise substantial market power, estimating the competitive effects of cartels and other restrictive agreements and assessing State aid.
